ABOUT

I have a strong foundation in hardware, software, and networking, supported by coursework in Introduction to Hardware and Software, Basics of Hardware, and Networking.

In addition to my studies, I have gained valuable hands-on experience through volunteer work and school-based employment. As a volunteer, I worked in office administration and customer support, while also performing duties related to an internet café, including assisting customers with computer usage, basic troubleshooting, and printing services. This experience strengthened my communication skills and ability to work with people from different backgrounds.

At school, where I served as an e-cadre employee, I was responsible for office administration, printer configuration, and basic networking tasks. I assisted staff with technical issues, ensured printers and computers were properly set up, and supported daily administrative operations. These roles helped me develop strong organizational skills and practical technical experience.

Beyond this, I have worked on practical projects involving C#, .NET, PHP, HTML, CSS, MySQL, and .NET MAUI, including building mobile applications, database-driven systems, and admin interfaces. I particularly enjoy helping people with technology, troubleshooting problems, and creating solutions that make work easier and more efficient.

I am eager to continue learning, growing, and contributing my skills in a professional environment.
